Breaking Free receives grants

ZANESVILLE — Breaking Free Therapeutic Riding Center in Norwich recently received two grants for programming. It got $20,000 from the J.W. and M.H. Straker Charitable Foundation and $10,000 from the Muskingum County Community Foundation.

The Straker grant will be used to complete the entryway and the waiting/viewing/meeting room. The MCCF grant will be used to complete the path to the entryway and the fundraising area.

Breaking Free offers various equine assisted activities on horseback and using groundwork from therapeutic riding lessons, beginner lessons, veteran and health care worker and many other programs.
